NOTE: This will be the first time I will be presenting the Basic descriptive stats course. I would like it if as many supervisors attended so that you can feed back critique to help me improve the course before I let it loose on students. ~ C Aldous

SUPERVISION WORKSHOP FOR ACADEMIC SUPERVISORS & PhD STUDENTS: 3–6 APRIL 2016

The College of Health Sciences and indeed the whole University recognizes the importance of good postgraduate supervision for production of quality students. It is clear that the supervision capacity is currently not at optimal level, both in terms of quantity and quality. In order to address this anomaly the CHS will be running the second workshop to provide an opportunity to academics, particularly those supervising for the first time, to learn some skills for doing it well. The workshop will target both supervisors and students but in different sessions. The supervisors' session will be on coaching them on good practice supervision and the students' session is intended to mold them into responsible postgraduate students who are a joy to supervise.

The workshop will take place on the

Date: 3 – 6 April 2016

Venue: To be confirmed

Supervisors will be at the venue from afternoon of the 3rd and depart on the 5th of April while students will arrive on the 5th of April and leave on the 6th of April. Only 25 participants allowed so please register quickly.
